

Baptiste

The image shows the word "Baptiste" written in a cursive script. Each letter is formed by a single continuous line. Small red arrows are placed at the beginning of each letter and at various points along the strokes to indicate the direction and sequence of the pen strokes. The word is written in black ink on a plain white background.

Estéban

The image shows the name 'Estéban' written in a cursive script. Each letter is formed by a continuous line, and small red arrows are placed at various points along the lines to indicate the direction and sequence of the strokes used to create each character. The 'E' starts with a red dot at the top left and moves clockwise. The 's' follows with a red dot at the top left and moves downwards. The 't' has a red dot at the top left and moves downwards. The 'é' has a red dot at the top left and moves downwards. The 'b' has a red dot at the top left and moves downwards. The 'o' has a red dot at the top left and moves clockwise. The 'a' has a red dot at the top left and moves clockwise. The 'n' has a red dot at the top left and moves downwards.

Eugénie

The image shows the name 'Eugénie' written in a cursive script. The letters are formed by a single continuous line. Red arrows are placed at various points along the lines to indicate the direction of the pen strokes. The 'E' is a large, ornate capital letter. The 'u' is a simple cursive 'u'. The 'g' has a long, looping tail that descends below the baseline. The 'é' has a small accent mark above it. The 'n' and 'i' are simple cursive forms. The 'e' at the end is a simple cursive 'e'. The entire word is written in black ink on a white background.

Jules

The image shows the word "Jules" written in a cursive script. The letters are connected and have a consistent slant. Red arrows are placed at various points along the lines of the letters to indicate the direction of the pen strokes. For the 'J', the arrow starts at the top of the loop, goes down, and then curves back up. For the 'u', the arrow starts at the top of the loop and goes down. For the 'l', the arrow starts at the top of the loop and goes down. For the 'e', the arrow starts at the top of the loop and goes down. For the 's', the arrow starts at the top of the loop and goes down.

Leana

The image shows the word "Leana" written in a cursive, looping script. Each letter is formed by a continuous line that starts with a small red arrowhead pointing in the direction of the stroke. The 'L' is tall and has a loop at the top. The 'e' is a simple cursive loop. The 'a' has a small loop at the top. The 'n' has a small loop at the top. The 'a' at the end is a simple cursive loop. The word is centered on a plain white background.

Léon

The word "Léon" is written in a cursive script. Each letter is formed by a continuous line, with small red arrows indicating the direction of the pen strokes. The 'L' starts with a red dot at the top left, loops to the right, then down, and finally loops back to the left. The 'é' starts with a red dot above the letter, loops to the right, then down, and finally loops back to the left. The 'o' starts with a red dot at the top right, loops to the left, then down, and finally loops back to the right. The 'n' starts with a red dot at the top right, loops to the left, then down, and finally loops back to the right.

Mariel

The image shows the word "Mariel" written in a cursive script. The letters are outlined in black. Red arrows are placed at various points along the strokes to indicate the direction of writing. For the 'M', an arrow points down the left vertical stroke. For the 'a', an arrow points down the left vertical stroke. For the 'r', an arrow points down the vertical stem. For the 'i', an arrow points down the vertical stem. For the 'e', an arrow points down the vertical stem. For the 'l', an arrow points down the vertical stem. There are two red dots above the 'i' representing the dotting process.

Marina

Rose

Lidonie

Chicago

Victoria