

The British Royal family

You know Queen Elizabeth II, Prince William and Prince Harry. But now who's next in line for the throne*?

Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall

"I'm Charles' second wife. At first, the public didn't like me very much, but now they accept me. Charles and I have a lot in common."

Charles, Prince of Wales

"I'm now 65 years old and I'm still not King*! But I don't mind*. I can devote my time to my charities, the environment" and Camilla."

HM Queen Elizabeth II

"I've been doing this job for 60 years, but I'm not stopping yet. I'm not sure Charles is ready* for the responsibility, and I have to keep* an eye on the family."

Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh

"Elizabeth fell* in love with me when she was 13 years old. I was born in Greece but I became a British citizen* before we got married."

Diana, Princess of Wales (died 1997)

"I was Charles' first wife. We had two children together, William and Harry. The public loved me ... and I loved them. My unofficial title was 'The People's Princess'."

Little Prince George

Hello, I'm Prince George of Cambridge. Born on 22 July 2013, my full name is George Alexander Louis. A future king, I am now third in line to the throne after my grandfather, Charles, and my father, William. It's an honour to be called George as Saint George is the patron saint of England.

Prince William, Duke of Cambridge

"British people love my wife, Kate, and would like me to be King*. But they will have to wait* because I want some time with my baby son."

Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge

"I met* my husband William at university in Scotland, where we were students. I have no royal blood* but when William becomes King, I will be Queen."

Prince Harry of Wales.

"I've recently become an uncle. I'll probably never be King but that's not a problem. I can play sport and have fun!"

The House of Windsor

This has been the name of the UK's royal house* since* 1917. The Queen's father chose the name. Before then, the royal family had a German name, "Saxe-Coburg and Gotha".
